There is Nothing to See.

For there is not a lot of good,
For the fight,
Sadly though,
A lot of bad in present sight,
So who's bad - Michael?
I'm all white while I write,
So is Marius Robert,
Dead - right?
He's not to be saluted,
He's not to be revered
A fancier financier,
No longer to be feared.

Like a father and the nun,
Or the priests and their son,
Habits so stained, collars that bled,
Please don't touch my baby's head.
Or run the water into her eyes,
I thought,
Will there be more tears to cry,
I fear - I cried and tasted the salt,

There certainly will be,
Less laughs to be had,
They fear, - they cried.
I for one am tragically sad.

So - stay away from,
The stoned sacred places,
Runaway home instead,
Gulp down the wine there and,
Bless the flat bread.

And, in the dark,
Look to the face in the mirror,
Try not to stare too long,
For there's nothing new to see,
There's nothing new to love,
There's nothing good to behold,
Only an icon for all of us to judge.

Critique and let thlip,
The mystique of self,
That even a questioned Mason,
Would not forget the view of himself,
Or a text that was written twixt,
A man and the date,
Of the young girls death,
Or before it was too late,
He lived and lives amongst us all,
One is dead,
The other is yet,
To fall.

There is Nothing to See -

Why did they want to kill you,
Should I have thrown the first stone,
Will I watch you drop the pouch,
And let the silver slither out,
Fangs in attack for flashy Jumping Jack,
Or just for the jealous to boast and flout.

Am I exalted enough in my mind,
To spin the knot for the 13th time,
For the likes of a zealot from Kerioth,
Framed for rebellion against democrats,
Or will I not.

Who am I to hold the gavel,
Who am I to send them down,
Who am I to explain with logic,
How he had risen from solid ground.
How can I explain to the children,
Gathered around my shop,
That somewhere deep inside of me,
I heard the music stop,

Many survive to play another song,
Many wait for just one more gong,
Like thieves in the temple,
They'll soon all be gone,
Allow me then to introduce myself.

For I am a magpie,
Can you see me,
Or count?
*One for sorrow,
Two for joy,
Three for a girl,
Four for a boy,

Five for silver,
Six for gold,
Seven for a secret
Never to be told.

Eight for a wish,
Nine for a kiss,
Ten a surprise
You should be careful not to miss,

Eleven for health,
Twelve for wealth,
Thirteen beware
It's the devil himself.
